Rule 4.4 Duties Concerning Inadvertently Transmitted Writings*
(Proposed Rule Adopted by the Board on March 9, 2017)

Where it is reasonably* apparent to a lawyer who receives a writing* relating to a lawyer's representation of a client that the writing* was inadvertently sent or produced, and the lawyer knows* or reasonably should know* that the writing* is privileged or subject to the work product doctrine, the lawyer shall:

(a) refrain from examining the writing* any more than is necessary to determine that it is privileged or subject to the work product doctrine, and

(b) promptly notify the sender.

Comment

[1] If a lawyer determines this rule applies to a transmitted writing,* the lawyer should return the writing* to the sender, seek to reach agreement with the sender regarding the disposition of the writing,* or seek guidance from a tribunal.* See Rico v. Mitsubishi (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807, 817 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]. In providing notice required by this rule, the lawyer shall comply with rule 4.2.

[2] This rule does not address the legal duties of a lawyer who receives a writing* that the lawyer knows* or reasonably should know* may have been inappropriately disclosed by the sending person. See Clark v. Superior Court (2011) 196 Cal.App.4th 37 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 361].
PROPOSED RULE OF PROFESSIONAL CONDUCT 4.4
(No Current Rule)
Duties Concerning Inadvertently Transmitted Writings

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The Commission for the Revision of the Rules of Professional Conduct (“Commission”) reviewed and evaluated ABA Model Rule 4.4 (Respect For Rights Of Third Persons) for which there is no California counterpart. The Commission also reviewed relevant California statutes, rules, and case law relating to the issues addressed by the proposed rule. The result of this evaluation is proposed rule 4.4 (Duties Concerning Inadvertently Transmitted Writings).

Rule As Issued For 90-day Public Comment

Proposed rule 4.4 is derived from ABA Model Rule 4.4(b). ABA Model Rule 4.4(a) seeks to regulate lawyer conduct that embarrasses, delays, or burdens a third party. It also prohibits a lawyer from obtaining evidence through means that violate the rights of a third person. The Commission determined to not recommend adoption of ABA Model Rule 4.4(a) because, similar to the First Commission, this Commission believes the rule is vague and overbroad with use of the terms “embarrass, delay, or burden a third party.” In addition, there was concern that such a rule could be used for mischief in discovery disputes if one were to assert a discovery motion was being used in violation of the rule.

Proposed rule 4.4 requires a lawyer who receives a writing relating to the representation of the lawyer’s client and knows or reasonably should know that the writing is either privileged or subject to the work product doctrine, when it is reasonably apparent to the receiving lawyer that the writing was inadvertently sent or produced, to promptly notify the sender. The Commission is recommending that California adopt this duty as a rule of professional conduct because California case law1 affirmatively states it is an ethical obligation of an attorney who receives inadvertently produced materials that obviously appear to be subject to the attorney-client privilege or otherwise clearly appear to be confidential and privileged that the attorney shall immediately notify the sender. In California, this duty is currently only found in case law and the Commission believes capturing the obligation in a rule of professional conduct will help protect the public and the administration of justice, as well as inform attorneys of their ethical obligation.

The main issue debated when evaluating this rule was whether to recommend an “obviously appear” standard regarding a writing’s status as privileged or subject to the attorney work product doctrine, instead of a “knows or reasonably should know” standard. The argument in favor of an “obviously appear” standard was that California case law uses the phrase “materials that obviously appear to be subject to an attorney-client privilege or otherwise clearly appear to be confidential and privileged . . .” (Rico v. Mitsubishi (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807, 817, quoting favorably State Comp. Ins. Fund v. WPS (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 644, 656-657).2 The Commission ultimately determined to recommend the objective standard of “knows or reasonably should know” because this standard accomplishes the same result articulated in the case by using a known disciplinary standard that is used in several proposed rules and in our

---

2 But see, Rico, 42 Cal.4th at 818: “The State Fund rule is an objective standard. In applying the rule, courts must consider whether reasonably competent counsel, knowing the circumstances of the litigation, would have concluded the materials were privileged, how much review was reasonably necessary to draw that conclusion, and when counsel’s examination should have ended.”
current rules. Further, an objective standard should be more protective of privileged information because the standard will be that of a reasonably competent attorney. Such a standard will prevent an attorney from raising as a defense that the document did not obviously appear privileged or subject to the attorney work product doctrine “to me.”

There is one comment to the rule. The comment provides guidance as to what steps the receiving lawyer should do, in addition to promptly notifying the sender, to either stop reading the document and return the writing to the sender, seek to reach agreement with the sender regarding the disposition of the writing, or seek guidance from a tribunal. These steps are consistent with what the California Supreme Court has stated a lawyer should do in this situation.

Although the concept contained in proposed rule 4.4 is currently addressed in case law, the proposed rule is a substantive change to the current rules because the duty is now being included as a rule of discipline.

National Background – Adoption of Model Rule 4.4

As California does not presently have a direct counterpart to Model Rule 4.4, this section reports on the adoption of the Model Rule in United States’ jurisdictions. Other than California, all jurisdictions have adopted some version of ABA Model Rule 4.4; however, three jurisdictions do not have a version of Model Rule 4.4(b).

The ABA State Adoption Chart for ABA Model Rule 4.4 is posted at:
- http://www.americanbar.org/content/dam/aba/administrative/professional_responsibility/mrpc_4_4.authcheckdam.pdf
- Fourteen states have adopted Model Rule 4.4 verbatim. Thirty-one jurisdictions have adopted a slightly modified version of Model Rule 4.4. Two states have adopted a version of the rule that substantially diverges from Model Rule 4.4.

Post-Public Comment Revisions

After consideration of comments received in response to the initial 90-day public comment period, the Commission made several changes to the text and comment of proposed rule 4.4.

Text. The Commission modified the syntax of the black letter text to clarify the rule’s application. This change is non-substantive. It also added the requirement that the lawyer “refrain from examining the writing” any more than is necessary to determine that it is privileged or subject to the work product doctrine.” This latter change conforms the rule to the holding in Rico v. Mitsubishi (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807, 817 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 758].

Comment. The Commission made a non-substantive change to the second sentence of Comment [1] (formerly the only comment to the rule) to include a cross-reference to rule 4.2, which comprehensively regulates communications with a represented person. The public comment draft had provided: “If the sender is known to be represented by counsel, the lawyer must communicate with the sender’s counsel.”

The Commission also added proposed Comment [2], derived in part from Model Rule 4.4, Comment [4], to clarify that the rule does not apply to writings that may have been inappropriately been disclosed to the lawyer. A citation to California case law that governs such disclosures has also been added.
With these changes, the Board authorized an additional 45-day public comment period on the revised proposed rule.

Final Modifications to the Proposed Rule

After consideration of comments received in response to the additional 45-day public comment period, the Commission made a minor citation format change. In Comment [4], the Commission added the word “See” before the citation Clark v. Superior Court (2011) 196 Cal.App.4th 37 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 361]. This was the only change to the rule.

With this change, the Commission voted to recommend that the Board adopt the proposed rule.
COMMISSION REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION: RULE 4.4

Commission Drafting Team Information

Lead Drafter: Raul Martinez
Co-Drafters: Joan Croker, Toby Rothschild

I. CURRENT ABA MODEL RULE

[There is no California Rule that corresponds to Model Rule 4.4, from which proposed Rule 4.4 is derived.]

Rule 4.4 Respect For Rights Of Third Persons

(a) In representing a client, a lawyer shall not use means that have no substantial purpose other than to embarrass, delay, or burden a third person, or use methods of obtaining evidence that violate the legal rights of such a person.

(b) A lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information relating to the representation of the lawyer's client and knows or reasonably should know that the document or electronically stored information was inadvertently sent shall promptly notify the sender.

Comment

[1] Responsibility to a client requires a lawyer to subordinate the interests of others to those of the client, but that responsibility does not imply that a lawyer may disregard the rights of third persons. It is impractical to catalogue all such rights, but they include legal restrictions on methods of obtaining evidence from third persons and unwarranted intrusions into privileged relationships, such as the client-lawyer relationship.

[2] Paragraph (b) recognizes that lawyers sometimes receive a document or electronically stored information that was mistakenly sent or produced by opposing parties or their lawyers. A document or electronically stored information is inadvertently sent when it is accidentally transmitted, such as when an email or letter is misaddressed or a document or electronically stored information is accidentally included with information that was intentionally transmitted. If a lawyer knows or reasonably should know that such a document or electronically stored information was sent inadvertently, then this Rule requires the lawyer to promptly notify the sender in order to permit that person to take protective measures. Whether the lawyer is required to take additional steps, such as returning the document or electronically stored information, is a matter of law beyond the scope of these Rules, as is the question of whether the privileged status of a document or electronically stored information has been waived. Similarly, this Rule does not address the legal duties of a lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know may have been inappropriately obtained by the sending person. For purposes of this Rule, “document or electronically stored information” includes, in addition to paper documents, email and other forms of electronically stored information, including embedded data (commonly referred to as “metadata”), that is subject to being read or put into readable form. Metadata in electronic documents creates an obligation under this Rule only if the receiving lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the metadata was inadvertently sent to the receiving lawyer.

[3] Some lawyers may choose to return a document or delete electronically stored information unread, for example, when the lawyer learns before receiving it that it was inadvertently sent. Where a lawyer is not required by applicable law to do so, the decision to voluntarily return such a document or delete electronically stored information is a matter of professional judgment ordinarily reserved to the lawyer. See Rules 1.2 and 1.4.

II. FINAL VOTES BY THE COMMISSION AND THE BOARD

Commission:

Date of Vote: January 20, 2017
Action: Recommend Board Adoption of Proposed Rule 4.4
Vote: 14 (yes) – 0 (no) – 0 (abstain)

Board:

Date of Vote: March 9, 2017
Action: Board Adoption of Proposed Rule 4.4
Vote: 11 (yes) – 0 (no) – 0 (abstain)

III. COMMISSION’S PROPOSED RULE 4.4 (CLEAN)

Rule 4.4 Duties Concerning Inadvertently Transmitted Writings*

Where it is reasonably* apparent to a lawyer who receives a writing* relating to a lawyer’s representation of a client that the writing* was inadvertently sent or produced, and the lawyer knows* or reasonably should know* that the writing* is privileged or subject to the work product doctrine, the lawyer shall:

(a) refrain from examining the writing* any more than is necessary to determine that it is privileged or subject to the work product doctrine, and

(b) promptly notify the sender.

Comment

[1] If a lawyer determines this rule applies to a transmitted writing,* the lawyer should return the writing* to the sender, seek to reach agreement with the sender regarding the disposition of the writing,* or seek guidance from a tribunal.* See Rico v. Mitsubishi (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807, 817 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]. In providing notice required by this rule, the lawyer shall comply with rule 4.2.
IV. COMMISSION’S PROPOSED RULE (REDLINE TO ABA MODEL RULE 4.4)

Rule 4.4 Respect For Rights Of Third Persons Duties Concerning Inadvertently Transmitted Writings

(a) In representing a client, a lawyer shall not use means that have no substantial purpose other than to embarrass, delay, or burden a third person, or use methods of obtaining evidence that violate the legal rights of such a person.

(b) Where it is reasonably apparent to a lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information relating to the lawyer’s representation of the lawyer’s client and a client that the writing was inadvertently sent or produced, and the lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the document or electronically stored information was inadvertently sent, the lawyer shall:

(a) refrain from examining the writing any more than is necessary to determine that it is privileged or subject to the work product doctrine, and

(b) promptly notify the sender.

Comment

[1] If a lawyer determines this rule applies to a transmitted writing, the lawyer should return the writing to the sender, seek to reach agreement with the sender regarding the disposition of the writing, or seek guidance from a tribunal. See Rico v. Mitsubishi (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807, 817 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]. In providing notice required by this rule, the lawyer shall comply with rule 4.2.

[2] This rule does not address the legal duties of a lawyer who receives a writing that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know may have been inappropriately disclosed by the sending person. See Clark v. Superior Court (2011) 196 Cal.App.4th 37 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 361].

[1] Responsibility to a client requires a lawyer to subordinate the interests of others to those of the client, but that responsibility does not imply that a lawyer may disregard the rights of third persons. It is impractical to catalogue all such rights, but they include legal restrictions on methods of obtaining evidence from third persons and unwarranted intrusions into privileged relationships, such as the client-lawyer relationship.

[2] Paragraph (b) recognizes that lawyers sometimes receive a document or electronically stored information that was mistakenly sent or produced by opposing parties or their lawyers. A document or electronically stored information is inadvertently transmitted.
sent when it is accidentally transmitted, such as when an email or letter is misaddressed or a document or electronically stored information is accidentally included with information that was intentionally transmitted. If a lawyer knows or reasonably should know that such a document or electronically stored information was sent inadvertently, then this rule requires the lawyer to promptly notify the sender in order to permit that person to take protective measures. Whether the lawyer is required to take additional steps, such as returning the document or electronically stored information, is a matter of law beyond the scope of these rules, as is the question of whether the privileged status of a document or electronically stored information has been waived. Similarly, this rule does not address the legal duties of a lawyer who receives a document or electronically stored information that the lawyer knows or reasonably should know may have been inappropriately obtained by the sending person. For purposes of this rule, “document or electronically stored information” includes, in addition to paper documents, email and other forms of electronically stored information, including embedded data (commonly referred to as “metadata”), that is subject to being read or put into readable form. Metadata in electronic documents creates an obligation under this rule only if the receiving lawyer knows or reasonably should know that the metadata was inadvertently sent to the receiving lawyer.

Some lawyers may choose to return a document or delete electronically stored information unread, for example, when the lawyer learns before receiving it that it was inadvertently sent. Where a lawyer is not required by applicable law to do so, the decision to voluntarily return such a document or delete electronically stored information is a matter of professional judgment ordinarily reserved to the lawyer. See rules 1.2 and 1.4.

V. RULE HISTORY

Although the origin and history of Model Rule 4.4 was not the primary factor in the Commission’s consideration of proposed Rule 4.4, that information is published in “A Legislative History, The Development of the ABA Model Rules of Professional Conduct, 1982 – 2013,” Art Garwin, Editor, 2013 American Bar Association, at pages 577 – 584, ISBN: 978-1-62722-385-0. (A copy of this excerpt is on file with the State Bar.)

VI. OFFICE OF CHIEF TRIAL COUNSEL / STATE BAR COURT COMMENTS

- Gregory Dresser, Office of Chief Trial Counsel, 9/27/2016
  (In response to 90-day public comment circulation):

  1. Model Rule 4.4(a) is consistent with California law. (See Business and Professions Code sections 6068(g) and 6068(f), rule 3-200 of the Rules of Professional Conduct, and rule 128.7 of the Code of Civil Procedure. Also see Sorenson v. State Bar (1991) 52 Cal.3d 1036 [encouraging the commencement or continuance of an action from spite and vindictiveness]; In the Matter of Scott (Review Dept. 2002) 4 Cal. State Bar Ct. Rptr. 446, 454-457 [attorney acted in bad faith, out of spite, with a retaliatory motive, and with the purpose to harm others and cause delay]; and In the Matter of Varakin (Review Dept. 1994) 3 Cal.
State Bar Ct. Rptr. 179, 187 [attorney acted in bad faith, out of spite and for the purpose of harassment].)

Commission Response: No response required.

2. Model Rule 4.4(b) is also consistent with California law. (See Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807.)

Commission Response: No response required.

- Gregory Dresser, Office of Chief Trial Counsel, 1/9/2017
  (In response to 45-day public comment circulation):
  1. OCTC supports this rule and Comments [1] and [2].

Commission Response: No response required.

- State Bar Court: No comments were received from State Bar Court.

VII. SUMMARY OF PUBLIC COMMENTS (INCLUDING COMMENTS SUBMITTED BY THE OFFICE OF CHIEF TRIAL COUNSEL AND STATE BAR COURT) & PUBLIC HEARING TESTIMONY

During the 90-day public comment period, four public comments were received. One comment agreed with the proposed Rule and three comments agreed only if modified. During the 45-day public comment period, two public comments, including the above comment from OCTC, were received. One comment agreed with the proposed Rule, and one comment agreed only if modified. A public comment synopsis table, with the Commission’s responses to each public comment, is provided at the end of this report.

VIII. RELATED CALIFORNIA LAW AND ABA MODEL RULE ADOPTIONS

A. Related California Law

The following authorities were among the statutes, cases and ethics opinions considered by the Commission in studying the current rule.

- Cal. Evidence Code § 954
- Costco Wholesale Corporation v. Superior Court (2009) 47 Cal.4th 725 [101 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]
- Rico v. Mitsubishi Motors Corp. (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807 [68 Cal.Rptr.3d 758]
- Clark v. Superior Court (2011) 196 Cal.App.4th 37 [125 Cal.Rptr.3d 361]
- State Bar Formal Opn. 2013-188
B. ABA Model Rule Adoptions

Other than California, all jurisdictions have adopted some version of ABA Model Rule 4.4; however, three jurisdictions do not have a version of Model Rule 4.4(b).¹

The ABA State Adoption Chart for ABA Model Rule 4.4, revised December 29, 2016, is posted at:

- http://www.americanbar.org/content/dam/aba/administrative/professional_responsibility/mrpc_4_4.authcheckdam.pdf

- Fourteen jurisdictions have adopted Model Rule 4.4 verbatim.² Thirty-one jurisdictions have adopted a slightly modified version of Model Rule 4.4.³ Two states have adopted a version of the rule that substantially diverges from Model Rule 4.4.⁴

IX. CONCEPTS ACCEPTED/REJECTED; CHANGES IN DUTIES; NON-SUBSTANTIVE CHANGES; ALTERNATIVES CONSIDERED

A. Concepts Accepted (Pros and Cons):

1. Change the title of the rule to “Duties Concerning Inadvertently Transmitted Writings”
   - Pros: The title more accurately describes the content and purpose of the rule.
   - Cons: None identified.

2. Recommend that California adopt of a version of ABA Model Rule 4.4(b)
   - Pros: California case law states it is an ethical obligation of an attorney who receives inadvertently produced materials that obviously appear to be subject to the attorney-client privilege or otherwise clearly appear to be confidential and privileged that the attorney shall immediately notify the sender. In California, this duty is currently only found in case law and capturing the

---

¹ The three jurisdictions are: Georgia, Michigan, and Texas.

² The fourteen jurisdictions are: Arkansas, Connecticut, Delaware, Iowa, Kansas (with a different title), Massachusetts, Minnesota, Nevada, New Mexico (with a different title), North Dakota (Model Rule 4.4(b) is found in North Dakota Rule 4.5(a)), Ohio (4.4(b) is verbatim), Oregon (4.4(b) is verbatim), West Virginia, and Wyoming.

⁴ The two jurisdictions are: Maryland and New Jersey.
obligation in a rule of professional conduct will help protect the public and the administration of justice, as well as inform attorneys of their ethical obligation.

- Cons: A lawyer’s duties concerning inadvertently transmitted writings often are fact-bound inquiries and therefore are difficult to specify in a one-size-fits-all rule that will have disciplinary consequences.

3. Recommend the rule use an “reasonably apparent” standard regarding the documents status as privileged or confidential or subject to the attorney work product doctrine, instead of a “knows or reasonably should know” standard.

- Pros: California case law uses the phrase “materials that obviously appear to be subject to an attorney-client privilege or otherwise clearly appear to be confidential and privileged . . .” (Rico v. Mitsubishi (2007) 42 Cal.4th 807, 817, quoting favorably State Comp. Ins. Fund v. WPS (1999) 70 Cal.App.4th 644, 656-657).* The “reasonably apparent” standard approximates the case law standard and offers the advantage of using the term “reasonably” which is defined in the proposed terminology rule (Rule 1.0.1(h)).

- Cons: An objective standard (knows or reasonably should know) accomplishes the same result articulated in the case law by using a known disciplinary standard being used in several proposed rules, and in our current rules (see, current Rule 5-110). An objective standard may be more protective of privileged or confidential information because the standard would be that of a reasonably competent attorney. Such a standard would prevent an attorney from raising as a defense the document did not obviously appear privileged, or confidential, or subject the attorney work product doctrine “to me.”

4. Include in the blackletter of the rule specific steps that the receiving lawyer should do upon receiving inadvertently transmitted writings that appear to be privileged. California case law states the receiving lawyer “should refrain from examining the materials any more than is essential to ascertain if the materials are privileged, and shall immediately notify the sender that he or she possesses material that appears to be privileged.” (Rico, 42 Cal.4th at p. 817)

- Pros: What the Supreme Court has stated is what a lawyer, at minimum, should do in this situation: stop reading the materials any more than is necessary to determine the materials are privileged, and notify the sender the lawyer is in possession of such materials. Although the language used in the case law is both “should” and “shall,” given the context of the Court’s

5 But see, Rico, 42 Cal.4th at 818: “The State Fund rule is an objective standard. In applying the rule, courts must consider whether reasonably competent counsel, knowing the circumstances of the litigation, would have concluded the materials were privileged, how much review was reasonably necessary to draw that conclusion, and when counsel’s examination should have ended.”
description of an “ethical obligation,” these steps should be regarded as mandatory imperatives rather than permissive guidance.

Cons: The steps described in case law are practice guidance and depend upon the specific facts and circumstances. As practice guidance, these steps do not belong in the blackletter of the rule. California court decisions state the receiving lawyer “should refrain” from reading the materials any more than is necessary to determine if the materials are privileged, and the lawyer “shall immediately” notify the sender that the lawyer possesses material that appears to be privileged. The additional guidance these court decisions provide use the permissive term “may” to describe what lawyers can do to resolve the dispute. Such language is not appropriate in the blackletter of a rule of discipline.

5. Recommend adoption of Comment [1] that provides a citation to the key California case on this subject (Rico v. Mitsubishi).

Pros: The proposed Comment clarifies the scope of the rule which is important in this situation because this rule would be a new rule in California. Comment [1] states the purpose of the rule and provides guidance as to how the rule should be applied. The Comment also cites to the California Supreme Court case stating the ethical obligations of an attorney who receives inadvertently sent or produced materials.

Cons: Including case law as guidance assumes a risk that the case could change or be superseded.

6. Recommend adoption of Comment [2] which explains that the rule does not address the legal duties of a lawyer who receives information that may have been inappropriately disclosed by the sending person.

Pros: The proposed Comment alerts lawyers to a problem area that is not addressed by the proposed rule. It provides citation to relevant case law (Clark v. Superior Court). This Comment is important to avoid erroneous application of the new rule.

Cons: The case cited is from the Court of Appeal and this could easily lead to confusion if subsequent cases provide different guidance.

B. Concepts Rejected (Pros and Cons):

1. Recommend adoption ABA Model Rule 4.4(a) which seeks to regulate lawyer conduct that embarrasses, delays, or burdens a third party. It also prohibits a lawyer from obtaining evidence through means that violate the rights of a third person.

Pros: Model Rule 4.4(a) provides important protection regarding the rights of third persons.
Cons: The Commission believes the rule is vague and overbroad with use of the terms “embarrass, delay, or burden a third party.” The rule could be used as a “club” in discovery disputes if one were to assert a discovery motion was being used in violation of the rule.

2. Include the phrase “or electronically stored information” after “writing” in the blackletter of the rule.

Pros: As part of Ethics 20/20, the ABA revised Model Rule 4.4(b) in 2012 to address the issues surrounding electronic documents and ESI discovery. The risk of inadvertently produced material grows when dealing with huge amounts of electronically stored data.

Cons: The ethical obligations imposed upon an attorney who receives inadvertently produced privileged or confidential material are no different whether the writing or document is “electronically stored,” or hand written. Further, the Commission is under the belief that the term “writing” will be defined as described by Evidence Code § 250, which would include electronically stored information.

This section identifies concepts the Commission considered before the rule was circulated for public comment. Other concepts considered by the Commission, together with the Commission’s reasons for not recommending their inclusion in the rule, can be found in the Public Comment Synopsis Tables

C. Changes in Duties/Substantive Changes to the Current Rule:

This would be new rule of professional conduct in California; however, the proposed rule would not be a substantive change in duties as articulated in California case law.

D. Alternatives Considered:

None.

X. RECOMMENDATION AND PROPOSED BOARD RESOLUTION

Recommendation:

The Commission recommends adoption of proposed Rule 4.4 in the form attached to this report and recommendation.

Proposed Resolution:

RESOLVED: That the Board of Trustees adopt proposed Rule 4.4 in the form attached to this Report and Recommendation.