GENERAL INFORMATION

1. What is the California Bar Exam Experiment?

The California Bar Exam Experiment will occur in two distinct phases. Phase One will test new multiple-choice questions developed by Kaplan Exam Services, LLC, and the new platform for remote and test center exam delivery ahead of the February 2025 California Bar Examination. Despite these changes, the bar exam's subject areas will remain the same, and those featured in the experiment are also the same.

Phase Two will separately explore test taker performance under different exam conditions including remote and in-person exam delivery, various time limits, and access to additional resources.

2. When will the experiment take place?

Phase One will occur on Friday, November 8 and Saturday, November 9, 2024. Phase Two will be conducted as an additional day for the July 2025 California Bar Examination.

3. How do I schedule an experimental exam session?

Applicants will not select their experimental exam date when submitting their application. If you are selected to participate in the experiment, you will be notified by email with instructions to schedule your exam. Selected participants will select from exam sessions that are less than two hours in length on either Friday, November 8 or Saturday, November 9, 2024. However, space is limited on each day and time slot, so availability will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

The exam scheduling window opens on Friday, October 25, and closes on Friday, November 1, 2024. The exam delivery vendor, Meazure Learning, will email applicants from either testingsupport@meazurelearning.com or support@meazurelearning.zendesk.com with specific scheduling instructions. Please, check your spam and junk folders regularly to ensure you receive this and all upcoming emails from Meazure Learning.

4. Am I eligible to participate in Phase One of the experiment?

Any applicant who is registered with the State Bar and intends to sit for the California Bar Examination in February or July 2025 is eligible to participate in Phase One of the experiment, including third- and fourth-year law students and repeat bar exam takers. Disbarred attorneys are not eligible.

5. Will everyone who applies for Phase One of the experiment be allowed to participate?

There are limited spots available for Phase One. The State Bar may allow all eligible applicants to participate in the experiment or may randomly select from those who applied.

6. Am I eligible to participate in Phase Two of the experiment?

Phase Two will be open to applicants approved to sit for the July 2025 bar exam. A randomly selected group may be invited to participate in the experiment. More information will be available at a later date.

7. Do I have to participate in both phases of the experiment?

No. Participation in either phase of the experiment is optional. Interested individuals must meet the eligibility requirements for each phase of the experiment. If you qualify for both phases, you can choose to apply for either one, both, or neither of them.

8. What should I do if I have additional questions about the experiment?

Please email the Office of Admissions at experimentalexam@calbar.ca.gov.

APPLICATION PROCESS

9. Where can I apply for Phase One of the experiment?

The application form for Phase One of the experiment is separate from the Applicant Portal used for other State Bar exams. Applicants can apply to participate in the experiment by completing the online application form. (Update: The online application closed on October 14, 2024.)

Some applicants registered with the State Bar may receive an email inviting them to apply. If you do not receive an email invitation, but meet the eligibility requirements, you can still apply using the online form. Also, if you have received the invitation email but are awaiting your July 2024 exam results, the invitation is not an indication of your exam results.

10. Where can I apply for the opportunity to participate in Phase Two of the experiment?

Additional information about the application process for Phase Two of the experiment will be released at a later date.

11. What is the application deadline for Phase One?

The application for Phase One will close at 11:59 p.m. (PT) on October 13, 2024. Applicants must submit a complete application and be registered with the State Bar by the deadline to be eligible. (Update: The application was extended by 24 hours and closed at 11:59 p.m. (PT) on October 14, 2024.)

12. I am in my last year of study and have not registered as a law student with the State Bar, but I would like to participate in Phase One of the experiment. When is the deadline to register?

Applicants must be registered with the State Bar by the application deadline to be eligible. The State Bar will review registration requests as quickly as possible, but approval before Phase One of the experiment is not guaranteed. If you are not already registered, please do so immediately in the Applicant Portal.

13. How will I know if I will be participating in Phase One?

The Office of Admissions will contact applicants via email to confirm whether or not an applicant will be participating in the experiment. There is limited space, so the State Bar may allow all applicants to participate or make a random selection from those who applied.

TESTING FORMAT

14. What is being tested in the experiment?

Phase One will be a multiple-choice exam, covering the same seven subject areas tested on the multiple-choice day of the California Bar Exam, except with questions developed by Kaplan Exam Services, LLC. This exam will require less than two hours of testing for standard test takers.

Phase Two will be a separate study that will feature multiple-choice and essay questions. It will also require less than two hours of testing for standard test takers, but some test takers will receive additional time as part of the experiment conditions being tested. The subject areas featured in the experimental exams are the same as those on the California Bar Examination.

15. How is the experimental exam being delivered?

The State Bar is testing a new exam delivery platform that may be used for the February 2025 California Bar Examination. This approach will allow most test takers to take the exam remotely online on their own computer, while others will take the exam in person at test centers where computers are provided. Participants will be asked whether they prefer remote or in-person testing, but due to the limited space, an applicant's preference is not guaranteed.

16. How do I prepare for the experiment?

Applicants should continue to study and prepare as they would for the California Bar Examination. While the State Bar is developing new multiple-choice questions, it did not alter the scope of the exam. The same subject areas will continue to appear on the bar exam and those subject areas will also be featured in the experiment.

TESTING ACCOMMODATIONS

17. How do I request testing accommodations for Phase One of the experiment?

The State Bar will process requests for testing accommodations for Phase One separate from the process for other State Bar exams. Applicants must request testing accommodations for Phase One through the online application form by 11:59 p.m. (PT) on October 13, 2024. (Update: The application was extended by 24 hours and closed at 11:59 p.m. (PT) on October 14, 2024.)

When requesting testing accommodations, please note that Phase One will consist only of multiple-choice questions. An approved testing accommodation for the experiment does not guarantee that the same accommodation will be granted for a future State Bar exam.

18. How do I request testing accommodations for Phase Two of the experiment?

Additional information about requesting testing accommodations for Phase Two of the experiment will be released at a later date.

19. What if I have already been granted a testing accommodation for a previous State Bar Exam?

Applicants requesting the same testing accommodations for Phase One as previously granted by the State Bar will receive the accommodations applicable to multiple-choice questions.

20. When is the deadline to submit a testing accommodations request for Phase One?

Applicants must submit a complete testing accommodation request as part of the online application form to participate in Phase One by 11:59 p.m. (PT) on October 13, 2024. Applicants who submit their requests near the deadline to apply for Phase One of the experiment may not be able to exhaust all administrative remedies before Phase One, such as requesting a review of a denial of some or all of the requested testing accommodations. Applicants are encouraged to submit requests as soon as possible.

A request that is incomplete by the application deadline for the experiment shall not be processed. Deadlines will not be extended for incomplete requests.

(Update: The application was extended by 24 hours and closed at 11:59 p.m. (PT) on October 14, 2024.)

21. What documentation may be required for my testing accommodations request?

You may be required to submit certain documentation along with your testing accommodations request. A testing accommodations request is not considered complete until all required documents have been provided. Those who have previously received testing accommodations for another high-stakes exam or from their law school or college may be asked to submit a previous approval letter. Applicants may also be required to submit the Qualified Professional Certification Form for the Experimental Bar Exam.

22. Can I request a review of the decision on my testing accommodations application for the experiment?

Applicants may request a review by staff no later than 11:59 p.m. (PT) on October 20, 2024. If an applicant's request for accommodations is denied, they may seek review of that decision by the Committee of Bar Examiners for a future State Bar exam. (Update: The period for reviewing testing accommodations request decisions has ended.)

23. How will I know if my testing accommodations request has been approved?

The Office of Admissions will contact applicants via email to confirm if a request for testing accommodations has been approved.

PROPOSED BAR EXAM SCORE ADJUSTMENT (UPDATED OCTOBER 22, 2024)

24. What is the California Bar Examination score adjustment incentive?

On October 22, 2024, the Supreme Court of California approved in part and denied in part the State Bar's recommendations regarding a score adjustment for those who participate and perform well in one or both phases of the experiment. Specifically, the Court approved that participants in Phase One of the experiment who reach a minimum threshold performance score will be eligible to receive a scaled score adjustment on the multiple-choice portion of the General Bar Exam on whichever 2025 General Bar Exam they attempt first. The Court denied the request for a scoring adjustment for Phase Two, without prejudice, pending the results of Phase One. Learn more at the California Bar Exam Webpage and FAQs found here.

25. How will participation in Phase One of the experiment impact my future bar exam score?

Applicants who participate in Phase One and meet a minimum threshold of performance will be eligible to receive a policy-determined scale score adjustment on the multiple-choice section on their first bar exam attempt in February 2025 or July 2025. The score adjustment will not exceed one standard error of measurement of the participant's total scaled score for the multiple-choice portion of the applicable bar exam. Attorney applicants sitting for the one-day Attorneys' Examination will not receive a score adjustment.

26. How will the minimum threshold of performance be determined?

The Committee of Bar Examiners will determine the minimum threshold performance score after psychometric analysis of results of the Phase One experimental exam evaluating the participants' motivation to perform. As such, more information about the performance threshold will not be available until after Phase One is completed.

27. How will the score adjustment be determined?

The number of points to award as the scoring adjustment will be made as a policy determination by the Committee of Bar Examiners. The committee will determine the magnitude of the scaled score adjustment informed by psychometric analysis of results of the Phase One experimental exam. The scaled score adjustment shall not exceed one standard error of measurement of the participant's total scaled score for the multiple-choice portion of whichever of the 2025 administrations of the bar exam they attempt first. As such, more information about the score adjustment will not be available until after Phase One is completed.

28. How will the score adjustment be applied?

An applicant's score on the experiment will be utilized if and only if: (1) the applicant did not pass the regular California Bar Examination based upon the usual scoring procedures, and (2) the applicant's score on the experiment is above the minimum threshold of performance as determined by the State Bar's psychometrician.

The scaled score adjustment will be based on the participants' performance in Phase One of the experiment. No participant will receive a scoring adjustment simply for participating in the proposed study. Any scoring adjustments for participants shall only be made after the State Bar's scoring, scaling, weighting, and reappraisal procedures have been completed. The scoring adjustment, if applied, does not alter the maximum available points for the General Bar Examination or its passing score. Rather, the proposed study potentially provides participants with additional questions through which they may demonstrate competency.

29. What happens if I don't do well on the experiment?

There will not be a penalty for those who do not score well in either phase of the experiment.

NEW ADDITIONS TO FAQs

30. What time of day is the experiment exam?

Sessions will be available throughout normal business hours in Pacific Time on November 8 and 9. Space is limited on each day and time slot, so availability will be on a first-come, first-served basis.

31. When will I know if I have been selected to participate in Phase One of the experiment?

The State Bar will send an email notification confirming selection to participate in the experiment and providing instructions on how to schedule the experimental exam.

32. What if I am awaiting the results of the July 2024 California Bar Examination?

Applicants currently awaiting their exam results can apply to participate in Phase One of the experiment. The first day of experimental exam sessions, November 8, is the day that results are released. There are experimental exam sessions on November 9 as well. However, space is limited for both days and sessions on a particular day are not guaranteed.

33. Can I participate in Phase One of the experiment if I am located outside of California?

Applicants located outside of California can apply to participate in Phase One of the experiment. If selected to participate, they will be required to test remotely as out-of-state test centers are not available for the experiment.

34. Can attorney applicants participate in Phase One of the experiment?

Yes. Attorney applicants are eligible to participate in Phase One of the experiment. However, an attorney applicant that sits for the one-day Attorneys' Examination will not be eligible to receive a score adjustment, if a score adjustment is approved. Disbarred attorneys are ineligible to participate in the experiment.

35. Can I request to handwrite my responses for the experimental exam in a paper booklet?

No. The experimental exam will only be offered in an online format for standard test takers. For those testing remotely, they will access the online exam through their own computer. For those testing at a test center, they will access the online exam through a computer provided by the test center. Handwriting is available to those with an approved testing accommodation that requires it.

36. Which exam delivery vendor will be used for Phase One of the experiment?

Meazure Learning will provide an exam delivery platform that is available through their live remote proctoring option as well as their small, test center spaces in California.

37. Will the remote testing platform require an internet connection?

Yes. The Meazure Learning platform features live remote proctoring which requires a stable internet connection at all times.
