

Attached are the current Year Work Plan Assessments for the Advisory Committees within RAD's oversight function. Staff liaisons submit annually a report summarizing their committee's current year accomplishments and activities. The reports are distributed to the pertinent oversight committees who should conduct an assessment of the advisory committee's current year activities.

Staff and advisory committee chairs are available to answer questions regarding the work plans and current year summaries.

In conducting your assessment, RAD committee members should consider the following:

1. How did the activities of your committee further completion of your committee's charge?
2. What specific measurable program accomplishments were achieved and what program accomplishments were not achieved and why?
3. How was program success measured and what type of information was provided? (Staff needs to include Performance Measures data in their report.)
4. Is there additional information needed and can that information be provided?
5. What changes, if any, should be made to the direction and desired outcomes related to the program?
